Dear Sir or Madam--

I am a software technician who works with both Microsoft and non-Microsoft products. Please, please do not miss this chance to stop the Microsoft monopoly before it gets any larger.

Computers are central to our economy. Already my small business customers are being forced into decisions that they do not want to make, because of Microsoft's strong-arm tactics. This isn't an issue for software companies, but for any business customer that uses a computer. That means nearly everyone in business.

You must be under considerable pressure to back down. We need you to carry through on this. -- Andra Medea
